Description

A delightful petite 19th-century French Louis Philippe arched mirror featuring a graceful arched frame showing a timeworn faux-wood patina, where years of gentle handling have softened the original painted finish to create a look that is both rustic and refined. Its original foxed glass perfectly complements this rustic elegance. Perfect to enhance light and depth in an entryway or above a small console, where its arched shape provides a jewel-like sparkle. It can also serve effectively as a centerpiece among other collectibles on a wall, such as prints, photographs, or sketches.
