Description

An Edwardian folding table constructed in oak, with a rectangular top of alternating light and dark planks within a moulded edge, set over a well-designed folding underframe with sprung stays and a central pivoting brace supporting two hinged turned leg frames terminating in original castors. A practical and generously-sized folding table with an attractive decorative top, it would work well as a side table or serving table, while providing the ability to easily stow away for storage or transit. Very good antique condition with surface wear, age-related marks and some wear to the edges commensurate with age and use. Structurally sound, clean and ready to place in the home. English, circa 1905. H: 69 W: 108 D: 58 cm Folded height: 9 cm
