Description

A well-proportioned square mahogany piece featuring an inset woven cane top within a simple, clean-lined frame. The natural canework panel provides both texture and visual lightness, contrasting attractively with the warm tone and polished finish of the surrounding mahogany. The piece stands on four neatly turned legs with subtle ring detailing, lending a traditional character while maintaining an understated and versatile design. The framed construction neatly supports the caned panel, highlighting the craftsmanship of the woven cane surface. Versatile in use, the piece may function either as a low coffee table or as a stool, its broad square top and sturdy construction making it suitable as an occasional surface or informal seating.
