Description

Dating to the last quarter of the 19th century, this is a classic example of a desirable group of Caucasian weavings which is becoming increasingly hard to find. Exquisite natural dyes and fine wool have been used. The triple medallions, often seen on soumacs, are beautifully drawn and are framed in the field by the ubiquitous yellow octagons and mysterious 'rocket-type' motifs. An additional element to the field design are the stylised floral ornaments. The narrow geometric border has the classic wine glass motif but with an unusual hook-like form, a rare feature that may appeal to the collector. Professionally cleaned and restored to a high stand this is a beautiful work of art, ideal either for a floor or wall.
