Description

This is a Georgian mouth-blown engraved rummer glass, dating from approximately 1810. The glass is in excellent condition for its age. It shows age related wear and tear to the foot consistent with age and use. The glass has an ovoid-shaped bowl measuring 9.5 cm (3.8 inches) in diameter at the rim. The glass has been blown in clear glass and then engraved with a swag and tail pattern with shields depicting anchors and paterae in place of the tails. The letters "GJ" are engraved to one side. The bowl sits on a collar and a short piece of plain stem that ends in a square lemon-squeezer foot that measures 6 cm (2.4 inches) across. The glass is 13.6 cm (5.4 inches) in height. There are no chips, cracks, significant scratches or any obvious signs of restoration. English lead glass, it weighs in at 285 g. (~ 10 oz.).
