Description

An elegant Regency-style sofa table inspired by early 19th-century English design. Crafted using a combination of elm, oak and ash, the piece features a beautifully grained top with crossbanded detailing and softly rounded drop leaves, allowing the table to be extended when required. 82 cm when top closed. The front is fitted with two drawers, each with decorative veneers and traditional key escutcheons, finished with classic brass knob handles. Raised on slender, sabre-style legs terminating in brass caps and castors, the table reflects the graceful proportions typical of Regency furniture. Finished with a contemporary bleached tone that highlights the natural grain of the timber, the piece blends traditional craftsmanship with a lighter, modern aesthetic, making it well suited to both classic and contemporary interiors. A versatile and refined table, ideal for use as a sofa table, console or occasional writing table.
