Description

Five antique terracotta pots with twin handles. These earthenware vases have splashes of black, brown glaze at the rims and over the decades, layers of flaky white paint have softened to a beautifully rustic, soft-whitened finish, with desirable patination that captures years of authentic use and aging. The two outside black splash rims are almost a pair at 61cm tall. The two in the middle are not a pair but almost the same height at 60cm tall - one with white flaky paint to the bottom half and the other with brown glazing to the top. The middle vase is the smallest at 57cm tall and faded white chalky paint peeled off in larger areas. These can also be purchased individually, please enquire. Larger options also available and other garden furniture items by Doulton Lambeth, J. M. Blashfield, Coalbrookdale and Handyside, please enquire.
