Description

A charming Georgian solid elm blanket box of classic country house character, featuring a well-proportioned rectangular form with a hinged lid opening to reveal generous internal storage. Boasting a rich, warm patina and attractive. The front is fitted with two practical drawers, each retaining brass swan-neck handles, and cockbeading. The piece stands on shaped bracket feet. There is evidence of historic woodworm, typical for furniture of this age, though this has long since been inactive and the piece has been professionally treated for peace of mind. A versatile and decorative antique, ideal for use as a blanket chest, coffee table, or hallway storage piece.
