Description

No: 11235 A mid 18th century Mahogany rectangular Centre Writing Table of unusual and practical design. The table displays a rich, warm colour and excellent patina that has developed over time. The rectangular top sits above a single long drawer to the front with attractive brass handles. A particularly fine feature of this table is the pair of pull-out candle slides concealed beneath the top on either side. These slides reveal fitted compartments designed to hold inkwells and writing accessories, providing additional practical surface space when in use. Such thoughtful details make the table both functional and highly decorative. The table has ogee shaped brackets to the corners and elegant chamfered legs terminating in the original leather barrel castors. Circa 1750 Price :£2,650 Height: 28¾", (73cm), Width:25", (64cm), Depth:19¾", (50cm). Provenance: The Late Great George Withers George Withers was born in 1946 in the village of Hallatrow, and spent his formative years growing up on a farm in Charfield, Gloucestershire. As early as 14, his fascination with antiques started to emerge. His family recollects him struggling one day across the field at the back ...
