Description

Herbert Thomas Dicksee was a British painter born in 1862. He was best known for his sensitive depictions of animals including dogs, lions and tigers. Dicksee's family was well-ingrained into the art world; his father was an artist and his nephew, Sir Frank Dicksee, was the president of the Royal Academy in London from 1924–1928. Herbert went on to study at the Slade School of Art in London on a scholarship, and his first painting was exhibited in 1881. Many of Dicksee's most famous works were transcribed into prints and etchings published by Clackner of London. He died on February 20, 1942 in Hampstead, England. "Footsteps" is an original etching. Showing a West Highland White Terrier with a Scottish Terrier behind, this example is the 1st state signed proof on vellum. Measuring 15"x 22" it is in a simple old frame giving an overall size of 23"x 31". It is also signed "H..D.." on the plate and is dated 1925.
