Description

The flagon has a tapering drum with flared base and incised lines above. There is a bold mid-fillet and fine incised lines below the collar, a flat lid with locating flange to the underside, twin-lobed thumbpiece, and solid curved handle. There are no visible maker's marks, the the flagon is identical in style to those attributed to William Eddon, London (fl.1690-1747), (PS3067), Circa 1720-30. There are no makers marks that I can find. Condition: good condition with a very lightly polished silver grey finish and some traces of light oxide. There are a few historic small dents to the drum and foot. Repairs: There is an old repair to the underside of the lid where attached to the thumbpiece. (The condition and old repair is reflected in the price). Size: Height to top of thumbpiece: 23.5cm (9¼in). Base diameter: 6.25in (15.7cm). capacity 60 fl.oz., height Stock number: P-320.
