Description

A beautifully elegant long pearl necklace, dating from 1969 and embodying the timeless refinement of mid-20th century jewellery. Composed of a single strand of lustrous cultured pearls, each individually hand-knotted, this piece offers both grace and enduring quality. The pearls display a soft creamy ivory tone with a gentle, even glow across the strand. Their consistent size and harmonious colouring create a wonderfully balanced appearance, while the traditional knotting enhances both security and fluid drape. Completing the necklace is a finely crafted 9ct gold clasp, delicately set with three small pearls. This thoughtful detail allows the clasp to be worn discreetly at the back or styled to the side or front as an elegant focal point. A classic and versatile piece, equally suited to formal wear or adding quiet sophistication to everyday attire.
