Description

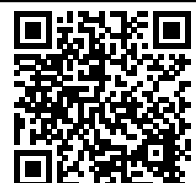

Edwardian 9ct Gold Amethyst & Seed Pearl Pendant Necklace by S. Blanckensee & Son Ltd c.1910 This elegant Edwardian pendant necklace, dating to around 1910, is a beautifully handcrafted example of the refined and romantic jewellery of the period. The openwork pendant is formed in warm 9ct gold with graceful scrolling lines that frame a delicate foliate motif. Four tiny flowers, each centred with a lustrous seed pearl, decorate the design and add soft highlights against the gold. At the centre sits a vibrant round amethyst of rich purple hue, while a further amethyst drop below provides gentle movement and an additional touch of colour. The pendant is suspended from a fine 9ct gold trace link chain secured with a traditional barrel clasp. Light, elegant and beautifully balanced, it sits perfectly when worn and reflects the delicate craftsmanship so admired in Edwardian jewellery. The reverse of the pendant carries the maker's mark S B&S Ltd for S. Blanckensee & Son Ltd, a respected Birmingham jeweller known for producing finely made pieces during the late Victorian and Edwardian periods. Graceful, feminine and timeless, this necklace remains just as enchanting today a...
