Description

A beautifully crafted early Victorian mahogany chest of drawers, offering the elegance, warmth, and practicality that define the period. This piece is fashioned from rich, well-figured mahogany with a mellow, glowing patina that only time can produce. The graduated arrangement — twin short drawers over full-width long drawers — provides excellent storage while maintaining a balanced, classic silhouette. Key Features • Circa 1840-1860, early Victorian period • Solid mahogany throughout, with attractive grain and a deep, even colour • Two short over four long drawers, all running smoothly • Original turned wooden knobs and brass keyholes (locks untested) • Shaped top and gently flared sides, giving the piece a refined, architectural presence • Sturdy plinth base, ensuring stability and strength This is a versatile, timeless chest — equally at home in a bedroom, hallway, or living space. Its clean lines and warm tone make it an easy fit for both traditional and contemporary interiors. A genuine, well-kept Victorian survivor with character and charm.
