Description

A lovely pair of Scottish antique George III sterling silver "Port" and "Madeira" wine labels. Each has been elaborately designed with two naked figures, one holding a jug and bottle and the other a basket of flowers. There is a plain section in the front of the label engraved with "Port" and "Madeira" and there is a Bacchus head motif at the base profusely decorated with grapes. These Scottish wine labels would make interesting additions to a collection and remain in excellent condition. When taking photographs, it is difficult to eliminate the reflection on silver. Height: 3.6 cms (1.4") Length: 6.1 cms (2.4") Weight: 38 grams They were hallmarked in Edinburgh for 1818 by James McKay. Complimentary postage is included within the price of these wine labels.
