Description

Rare Japanese cloisonne charger with auspicious symbols. Circa 1850. Finely rendered with a central mosaic of auspicious symbols from Japanese culture, and geometric shapes. The design includes a fan, lantern, daruma doll, tomoe, drum, and flute, each with its own cultural significance*. Extremely rare design (and early example). The auspicious symbols convey messages of resilience, enlightenment, and celebration. Values that transcend time and are still meaningful today. Condition: Good and unrestored condition. Darkened patina and original matte finish. Some firing pitting and very small enamel loss, reflective of early enameling techniques of the period. Excellent circular shape. Dimensions: Diameter = 36.6cm Depth = 5cm *Fan (Sensu): Symbolizes growth and change, as the fan unfolds to bring fortune. Lantern: Represents guidance and enlightenment, often used in festivals. Daruma Doll: Emblematic of resilience and luck, reflecting the spirit of perseverance. Tomoe: A swirl pattern symbolizing the harmony between earth, heaven, and mankind. Drum (Taiko) and Flute (Fue): Represent celebration and festivity, central to traditional Japanese culture. The borders and b...
