Description

Republic Period (c. 1920s) Chinese Jade "Auspicious" Pendant. Dating to the c. 1920s Republic Era, this 5cm hand-carved Jade pendant features a traditional "Qilin and Crane" motif, symbolizing high virtue and longevity. The piece is crafted from a classic celadon-toned stone with natural, dark "ink" inclusions that provide a sophisticated, marbled character. The pendant exhibits a desirable waxy, "oily" lustre consistent with century-old handling. Under backlighting, it reveals a soft, buttery translucency and a fine interlocking grain characteristic of good quality. With its fluid, hand-finished details and single suspension hole, it represents a high-quality example of early 20th-century Chinese lapidary art.
