Description

Antique Chinese Jade "Pixiu" Pendant Republic Period (c. 1920s) | Archaic Han Style This masterfully hand-carved pendant is a fine example of Republic Period craftsmanship, created during the early 20th-century "Archaic Revival." It features a powerful Pixiu—the mythical guardian of wealth—encircled by a border of ancient-style coins to symbolize prosperity. The stone is high-quality jade with a warm, honey-toned translucency. It displays intentional "archaic" weathering and dark staining, a sophisticated 1920s technique used to emulate buried artifacts. The piece possesses a soft, waxy patina consistent with a century of handling. Specifications Era: Republic Period (ca. 1920s) Material: Jade Dimensions: 4.5 cm x 4.0 cm Weight: 27 grams Symbolism: Protection and Fortune (Pixiu & Coins)
