Description

A fine quality French kingwood corner display cabinet with elegant serpentine form and exceptional decorative detail. The case is beautifully veneered in kingwood laid in a striking chevron pattern creating depth and movement across the surface. The cabinet is adorned with finely cast gilt bronze mounts framing the glazed door and accenting the corners and cabriole legs. The shaped marble top sits above following the serpentine outline and adds both practicality and visual contrast. The glazed door opens to reveal shaped glass shelves designed to display porcelain silver or decorative objects. Cabinets of this type were originally used in formal reception rooms to showcase prized possessions reflecting both taste and status within the home. This is a particularly attractive example with strong colour crisp ormolu mounts and a refined silhouette making it ideal for both traditional interiors and more contemporary settings where a statement piece is required. Condition Report: In good antique condition with light age related wear. The marble top is in good order with minor natural inclusions. The ormolu mounts are well preserved. Glass shelves and door are in good condition...
