Description

This is a truly rare piece of French vernacular furniture. This cupboard is 18th century and made of chestnut, which suggests this piece probably originates from the Dordogne region in France. This example has two doors opening to a shelved interior, the doors have a bold geometric design which gives the cupboard a contemporary look and is why I love these mountain cupboards. An unusual contrast you rarely see. All over great proportions, stunning patina and just a honest feel about. Height 155cm Width (to pegs on the sides) 114cm Depth 34cm
