Description

A striking vintage diamond cluster ring from the 1950s, beautifully designed in the enduring Art Deco style. At its centre, three elegant baguette-cut diamonds are arranged in a refined linear formation, framed by a glittering surround of brilliant-cut diamonds that create a wonderfully balanced and eye-catching display. The combination of geometric baguette cuts and softly sparkling round diamonds gives this ring both structure and brilliance—capturing the glamour of earlier decades while retaining the wearable elegance of the mid-century period. A beautifully proportioned and highly wearable piece, perfect as a distinctive engagement ring or an elegant dress ring.
