Description

A Pair of Fabulous Antique Edwardian Entrée Dishes with a restrained rococo-style scroll motif to the corners and shoulders. Each dish has a gently shaped rectangular form with a domed cover designed to retain heat at table. The removable handles are decorative in outline and sit on raised mounts, providing a comfortable lift when serving. These dishes are traditionally used for serving vegetables, fish, or small joints as part of a formal dinner service. The handles can be removed from the lids, which can in turn be used as separate bases if required – circa 1905. * A matching pair are increasingly hard to find and always look impressive on a sideboard. Measurements: Height (to top of handle): 5 1/2" (approx. 14cm) Width: 11" (approx. 28cm) Depth: 8" (approx. 20cm) Total weight: 3600g In good condition – Both pieces show general surface wear consistent with age and normal use.
