Description

This fabulous, solid, heavyweight decorative panel was sourced from a French chateau and would originally have been part of some form of balustrade. The central part comprises an intricate floral design, which is surrounded by beautiful curved and curled details. There is plenty of age and patina and it is in good, solid condition. It would be a wonderfully decorative piece to hang on either an internal or external wall, would make a lovely wall insert, acting as a 'window' between two rooms, and could be converted into a stunning mirror.
