Description

An antique oak 19th Century oak housekeeper's cupboard. The upper section features a pair of panelled doors opening to reveal a shelved interior, sitting above two short over three long drawers. The piece stands on a shaped base and has a lovely warm oak colour with plenty of character throughout. A very practical and decorative country piece, ideal for use as a linen press, kitchen cupboard or general storage. The cupboard separates into two sections for ease of transport. Item Reference: M-6753 . Dimensions: Height – 178cm / Width – 110cm / Depth – 55cm . CONDITION REPORT: In fair antique condition with signs of age and use throughout. There are surface marks, scratches and general wear consistent with age. There are age related splits to the sides, as to be expected with a piece of this age. There is also loss to the bottom drawer front (pictured) and a damaged escutcheon to the upper doors. Despite the wear, the piece remains structurally solid and sound. There is evidence of historic woodworm to the backboards, but this has long gone and been treated as a precaution. The drawers run and the cupboard is sturdy. A characterful piece with a nicely aged look. Our exper...
