Description

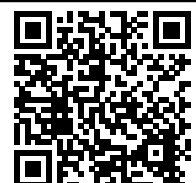

An exceptional Regency period mahogany sideboard of elegant and imposing proportions, raised upon six finely turned and reeded legs, demonstrating superb craftsmanship of the early 19th century. The façade is arranged with four oak-lined drawers, each finely constructed and enriched with applied moulded detailing. The drawers retain their original and highly decorative brass lion's mask ring pull handles, lending a strong neoclassical presence and authenticity to the piece. The sideboard is executed in the finest flame mahogany, the timbers displaying a beautifully figured grain with remarkable depth and warmth, further enhancing its visual impact. A piece of both functional excellence and decorative distinction, representative of the refined taste and quality associated with the Regency period. Presented in good condition. Size: Height 36" (91cm) Width 57" (145cm) Depth 23" (58cm)
