Description

Outstanding 19th-century mahogany inverted bow-front console table in excellent antique condition. The frieze is subtly decorated with delicate ebony stringing and two carved roundel motifs. It is raised on four boldly carved scroll supports with crisp acanthus detail. A well-proportioned piece with good, even colouring and only minor age-related marks consistent with use, none of which detract from its elegant decorative presence. The carving is sharp, the supports are sturdy, and the table stands well with no movement. A wonderful example of 19th-century craftsmanship that will add a touch of refinement to any interior.
