Description

A finely modelled German hard-paste porcelain figure of a young gallant, produced in the Rudolstadt-Volkstedt region circa 1880. The composition reflects the Rococo Revival taste, with an elegant pose, a rose held to the chest, and a well-developed rocaille base supported by a naturalistic stump. The face is delicately painted, with refined expression and softly modelled features typical of quality Volkstedt production. The decoration is balanced and restrained, with careful use of colour and gilding enhancing the modelling rather than dominating it. The underside bears an underglaze blue twelve-rayed rosette mark associated with Triebner, Ens & Eckert. This firm is recognised within the Volkstedt tradition for producing technically competent and commercially successful porcelain figures for export markets. Larger than many comparable examples, the figure offers strong visual presence while retaining a light and well-balanced composition. A good representative example with clear decorative and collector appeal. Measurements Height: 24.8 cm Width: 11.5 cm Depth: 11.5 cm Weight: 643 g

Condition: The index finger of the right hand is broken. Otherwise in excellent condition.
