Description

A beautiful and timeless 1950s pearl necklace, composed of a single strand of finely matched cultured pearls, each individually knotted and displaying a soft creamy ivory tone with delicate pink overtones. At the centre sits a particularly attractive clasp, set with a rich purple oval cabochon amethyst within a 14ct gold mount. Designed to be worn at the front or elegantly to one side, the clasp transforms the necklace from a classic strand into something altogether more distinctive and refined. The pearls have a smooth, even surface and a lovely lustre, catching the light beautifully with every movement. Effortlessly elegant and endlessly wearable, this is a classic mid-century pearl necklace with a subtle yet striking twist. 1950s 14ct gold clasp (marked 585) Single strand cultured pearl necklace Individually hand knotted Pearls approx. 6.5mm Creamy ivory tone with soft pink overtones Excellent lustre Oval cabochon amethyst clasp Amethyst measures approx. 13mm x 10mm Clasp size: 14.2mm x 11.2mm Secure push hook clasp Designed to be worn centrally or to one side Length: 21" (54cm) Weight: 27.8 grams Excellent condition Presented in the box illustrated Our ref: 2545 Ple...
