Description

A very good Victorian walnut canterbury made by Edwards and Roberts of Wardour street, London with original trade label to base of drawer as follows: Edwards & Roberts Second Hand Furnishing Warehouses In modern and Antique Furniture 20 Wardour St and 7 & 13 Chapel St. Oxford St, London Very high quality and retaining original brass casters. In great condition throughout, the drawer with clean and substantial oak lining with finely dovetailed joints. The three sections with multiple fine ring turned spindles and carved spiral supports and with original handles to drawer, carrying handles and original turned finials. Minor dings and marks, a few nibbles to the bases of the finials and along the dustboard below the drawer but not at all noticeable and entirely right for age and careful use. Founded in 1845, Edwards and Roberts became synonymous with high quality furniture, both as cabinet makers - producing items of highest quality and using the finest timbers. In 1860 they had shops at 20 Wardour street and at 13 Chapel street. Later in 1871, their premises had expanded to include 21 Wardour Street, and in 1890 the company expands again and now occupies 148-160 W...
