Description

18th Century Dutch Marquetry Silver-Top Table Flowers & Birds Rococo Queen Anne Brief Description: This is an exceptional example of an 18th-century Dutch Rococo-period free-standing marquetry silver-top table. Circa 1750-1760, and of a truly fabulous patina. The piece has a raised and scrolled tap-top border that runs around the beautiful marquetry-inlaid tabletop, which depicts tulips, a central urn with figureheads, and nine elegant birds. With one long drawer, retaining the original lock, the original gilt brass handles and the original lock escutcheon. It is a freestanding piece, so it can be used as a centre table, hall table or a side table. A strong and sturdy piece that comes with a working key and a custom-made protective table top glass panel. Attributes: Dutch Marquetry table Circa: 18th-century (1750-1760) Condition: In very fine order commensurate with its approximate 260+ years of age.
