The rectangular amboyna top with an elegant brass gallery above a frieze inset with a "Wedgwood Blue" jasperware plaque, depicting classical figures. The glazed door enclosing two glass shelves with a mirror back, flanked by stunning ormolu columns, and raised on turned feet. One cannot overstate the truly unique opportunity to own such a delightful cabinet. Condition: In excellent condition having been beautifully cleaned and waxed in our workshops, please see photos for confirmation. Dimensions in cm: Height 112 cm x Width 90 cm x Depth 43 cm. Dimensions in inches: Height 3 foot, 8 inches x Width 2 foot, 11 inches x Depth 1 foot, 5 inches. Amboyna is a type of wood which has its origins in Indonesia (the preferred veneer comes particularly from the Andaman Islands). The grain texture is one of the most seldom and exclusive on earth. The burls are often very small, which is why the sheets of veneer come in small dimensions. The colours range from deep yellowish-orange to dark red. After finishing the surface, the grain texture of amboyna wood has a depth and richness un...
