Description

A very rare antique Scottish Provincial Silver toddy ladle. Made in Elgin by William Ferguson around 1828. Ferguson was an accomplished itinerant silversmith who worked in several towns travelling around looking for commissions. His best work was probably done in Elgin in the early 19th century. The ladle has a crisp set of makers and town marks as well as owner's initials on the terminal. This ladle is in excellent condition with no damage or repairs. Weight; 44 grams approximately. Free delivery in the UK. Payment by bank transfer, card over the phone, PayPal or Klarna. Using Klarna payments can be split over three months.
