Description

George III oak breakfront Welsh dresser base with spice drawers c.1800. Featuring a plate stand and a row of six small spice drawers over the main top (height 37"), made from a single board of pronounced grain. Breakfront base with a deeper central bank of four drawers of graduated heights flanked on each side with a drawer and cupboard (internal depth 17"). Unusual secret compartment tucked behind the runner of the right hand drawer. Cock beaded drawer fronts, raised mouldings to the door panels and moulded pilasters either side of the middle drawers. Inlaid bone escutcheons and original brass swan neck handles. The brass catches to the doors are most likely later historical additions.
