Description

A charming antique early 20th century Edwardian bureau bookcase in oak, very well made and of good quality throughout. This elegant and practical piece features a glazed upper section with two adjustable internal shelves, ideal for display or storage of books and decorative items. The central bureau section offers a neatly fitted interior, providing a functional writing space, while below are two useful drawers fitted with their original handles, adding authenticity and period charm. It stands on attractive barley twist legs with a supporting stretcher, enhancing both its stability and classic Edwardian character. The oak displays a gorgeous grain and warm rich colour throughout, giving the piece a timeless and highly desirable appearance. Designed in two sections for ease of transport, this versatile and well-proportioned example is presented in good condition and would make a perfect addition to any home.
