Description

This is a wonderful opportunity to own a genuine Victorian solid oak and pitch pine dining table dated to around 1890. The top is constructed of first class figured English Oak which has a wonderful golden or honey colour with fabulous grain and patina. It has been professionally restored using traditional wax so the top is in unmarked condition and is 1 " thick so is extremely heavy. The pitch pine base has fabulous slightly tapering turned legs and has been hand painted with three coats of Farrell and Ball Ivory White Eggshell paint which is highly durable and will of course fit in with any colour scheme. We can however repaint it in any colour you require should you wish to change it. It is very large seating ten people quite comfortably and measures 92 " x 34 " and is 29 " high. This table has been sympathetically restored whilst still retaining its original features and character. A fabulous piece of genuine antique Victorian furniture which would grace any period home and would look stunning in a large country kitchen. Delivery for this table is normally free for mainland England and Wales, unfortunately as we are based in Cornwall it...
