Description

A fine quality antique French kingwood bonheur du jour cabinet, richly decorated in the Louis XV style and mounted with ornate gilt bronze ormolu mounts throughout. This elegant piece features beautifully figured kingwood veneers arranged in striking patterns, complemented by delicate Sevres style porcelain plaques depicting hand-painted scenes. The upper cabinet is fitted with glazed doors opening to shelved interior, ideal for display, while the lower section offers a shaped writing surface with a pull-out writing slide and useful drawer beneath. The flowing serpentine form, cabriole legs, and intricate ormolu mounts exemplify classic French craftsmanship of the late 19th century. A highly decorative and functional piece, perfect as a statement cabinet, writing desk, or display piece in both traditional and contemporary interiors. Measurements: Height 152cm x Width 102cm x Depth 53cm Presented in good antique condition, ready for immediate use and display.
