Description

A Victorian oak Dickens desk, of substantial and practical form, raised on a plinth base with twin pedestal supports. The desk features an arrangement of eight mahogany-lined graduated drawers, offering ample storage. The lift-up writing slope opens to reveal a well-fitted maple interior, providing a functional and attractive workspace. Above, the superstructure is arranged with two banks of drawers and finished with a turned gallery, adding both utility and decorative appeal. The writing surface is inset with a replacement leather, hand-finished with gilt and blind tooling. Free-standing and designed in three sections for ease of transport and installation, this is a highly versatile and characterful piece of Victorian furniture. Presented in good condition. Size: Height 44" (112cm) Width 48" (122cm) Depth 30" (76cm) Working height 31" (79cm) Kneehole height 24" (61cm)
