

SA1212276

Very Rare Georgian Mixed Twist Wine Glass c1760 - With Flared Bucket Bowl

Price

GBP 680

| USD $920 | EUR 796

Item Reference: SA1212276Date of manufacture: Georgian

Description

Technical Description A very rare 18th century mixed twist wine glass, dating to circa 1765. It features a flared bucket bowl above a mixed twist stem, comprising a pair of white spiral threads surrounding an air cable. Raised on a conical foot. Date & Origin England, c1765. Period of King George III. Condition Excellent. No chips, cracks or restoration. Dimensions Height: 6cm Rim diameter: 6.2cm Foot diameter: 6.8cm Weight: 153 grams Historical Context Mixed twist wine glasses are mid-18th century pieces that combine air twist and opaque twist techniques in the one stem. They are valued for their decorative contrast, technical complexity, and reflect a period of innovation in glassmaking. Collectors Notes "Rare" is a term too easily used in today's antiques market; however, when justified, it is entirely appropriate. As an overall form, 18th century mixed twist glasses are 'rarer' than colour twists, accounting for approximately 1.5% of surviving wine glasses from the period. In particular, this glass features a bucket bowl, a form long favoured by collectors for both its rarity and strong visual presence. Based on our own records of approximately 1,300 18th cent...

Internal Ref: 2028031767

Seller Details

Exhibit Antiques

Glasgow Scotland United Kingdom

Tel: 01501 228 282

International Tel: +44 1501 228 282