Description

Of a spectacularly rich colour and outstanding original condition, this beautiful bureau bookcase is of the finest quality and dates from c. 1710. With broken arch pediment with walnut cavetto moulding above two mirrored doors each with the original deeply bevelled and shaped plates, and two candle slides below so that the candle light would reflect in the mirrors. The well shaped doors with featherbanded inlays and crossbanded borders, the fall drawers and pediment with matching featherbanded inlays and crossbanded borders in figured walnut centred with burr walnut panels. The upper case doors with crossbanding and moulded bead frames to the plates, open with original hinges and locking mechanism to reveal a fully fitted interior of small featherbanded drawers with original handles and tall canopied pigeon holes. In superb condition for age and clearly very well cared for and with only a couple of very minor veneer repairs and restorations. With one mirror plate slightly more foxed than the other but both mirror plates original and reflecting very well and the foxing not noticeable in daylight or in normal indoor lighting. The fall lowers on original hinges to sit fi...
