Description

A fine and impressive Victorian Scottish Dirk brooch or kilt pin, Circa 1870. The tapering purple hued chalcedony body is topped with a finely cast and shaped silver and amethyst thistle, with the silver finely hand modeled, with hinged pin to reverse. Of fine quality and large size. This type of silver jewellery mounted with Scottish agates became popular after Queen Victoria bought Balmoral in the 1860. It measures 10.2cm (4") long. The price includes insured delivery to anywhere in the mainland UK. If you require delivery elsewhere we are happy to provide quotes for a fully insured door to door service. If you have any questions or wish to see more photographs please contact us and we will be happy to help.
