Description

An exceptional and large Irish Killarney marquetry inlaid centre table in beautifully figured yew wood, a striking exhibition quality piece designed as a statement table for an entry hall, foyer or formal interior. Richly decorated with shamrocks, harps and flowing foliage, this is a fine example of Killarney craftsmanship very much in the manner of the renowned Egan workshop. The circular top is particularly impressive, displaying a superb radial yew ground with a finely shaped serpentine edge. It is intricately inlaid with traditional Irish motifs, framed by double crossbanding, with a central leaf design creating a strong focal point. The depth of colour and contrast in the timber is excellent and enhances the clarity and detail of the marquetry. The table is raised on a substantial hexagonal pedestal, finely inlaid with harps and shamrocks, leading to a wide circular platform base with further inlay. It stands on three well carved scroll feet and has excellent scale, balance and presence, making it a true centrepiece. Killarney furniture was produced as high quality decorative work for important interiors rather than everyday use. These pieces were made to impress, of...
