Description

A superb 16thc Elizabethan "boarded" oak coffer....it has a good natural colour and size, not being too large and has attractive double line incised moulding to the top....it still retains the original shaped spandrels, iron ring hinges, lock and clasp....I particularly like the early feature of how the coffer is made with large iron clout nails fastening the boards together....very good condition for its age. English C1560-80.
