Description

A nice small antique 20th century oak cupboard, well made and of good quality, offering both charm and practicality in a compact form. The piece features two drawers to the upper section, providing useful storage, along with a double-door cupboard to the base fitted with two internal shelves. It retains all of its original wooden handles and stands on attractive decorative legs, giving it a pleasing traditional appearance. A raised gallery to the top adds further character and visual interest. The cupboard displays a gorgeous oak grain and warm rich colour throughout. Presented in good overall condition, there is a slight warp to the bottom right cupboard door, which does not affect its use. A very desirable and practical example, making a perfect addition to any home.
