Description

A handsome Victorian mahogany cellarette of rich colour and elegant form. The hinged, panelled lid lifts to reveal its original stoneware-lined interior — ideal for keeping wine or bottles cool, as intended in the 19th century. The exterior is beautifully crafted, with shaped mouldings, panelled sides and bold carved feet that give the piece real presence. The mahogany has developed a warm, glowing patina, highlighting the quality of the timber and the cabinetmaker's skill. Sturdy, well-proportioned and full of character, this is both a decorative and practical piece. In excellent antique condition, with only minor marks and wear consistent with age and use—this is both a functional piece and a stylish talking point, perfect for enhancing any interior.
