Description

An antique Georgian mahogany partners library writing desk with pull out leather writing slide and drawers to both sides. This unusual English leather top writing table stands on elegant turned legs with the original brass cup castors and retains a beautiful rich mahogany colour and patina throughout. The desk features a hand tooled leather inset top with gilt and blind decoration together with an unusual pull out leather writing slide providing additional workspace. One side is fitted with three drawers while the opposing side contains stationery drawers and compartments making this a practical and highly decorative antique Georgian library desk. Originally designed so two people could work opposite one another, partners desks became popular in Georgian libraries, estate offices and gentleman's studies. The additional pull out writing surface on this example is a particularly unusual feature and adds greatly to its versatility and appeal. Condition Report Good antique condition with age related wear, marks and patina to the leather and timber commensurate with age and use. A genuine Georgian desk with excellent character. Dimensions Height: 74 cm (29.13 in) Width: 137 cm...
