Description

Exceptional antique French vitrine display cabinet, richly decorated with ornate gilt bronze ormolu mounts and crafted in the manner of the renowned Parisian cabinetmaker François Linke. Dating from the late 19th century, this elegant French display cabinet combines luxurious materials with outstanding Belle Époque craftsmanship. Featuring a shaped marble top with warm veining, curved glass sides, serpentine glazed door, and finely cast ormolu mounts throughout, this vitrine cabinet makes a striking statement in both traditional and contemporary interiors. The beautifully figured mahogany veneers contrast superbly against the gilded bronze mounts, while the silk-lined interior and glass shelves provide ideal display space for antiques, porcelain, jewellery, or decorative objects. Raised on elegant cabriole legs with gilt bronze sabots, this antique French cabinet offers exceptional decorative presence and timeless sophistication. A superb quality antique vitrine cabinet for collectors, interior designers, or anyone seeking high-end French furniture with true character and craftsmanship. Height: 155cm Width: 76cm Depth: 39cm
