Description

An Edwardian brass table lamp raised on a square stepped base, an inverted corinthian capital, smooth column and headed with a conventional corinthian capital. The clever contrast between the two capitals and the smooth column is most unusual and makes a very attractive and elegant antique lamp. There is a very minor dent in the column, this does not detract in any way from the appeal of the lamp, this is clearly shown in the photographs. This elegant brass table lamp has been rewired with fibre covered twisted flex and PAT tested. A decorative period lamp, easy to place in any interior. Shade is not included c. 1910 L1112 Height: 14.25" 36 cm including fitting Base: 4" square 10 cm square
