Description

An elegant and highly functional Edwardian / Arts and Crafts period occasional side table crafted from solid oak. This versatile piece features a rectangular top with slightly rounded corners, set above a beautifully shaped apron featuring a central carved scroll motif. The table stands on slender, subtly tapered legs connected by a practical lower tier shelf, making it ideal for use as a small console or hall table, or living room accent piece. The oak boasts a lovely natural grain and a warm, medium honey finish. Good antique condition with minor surface wear consistent with age and use. Sturdy and ready for the home.
