Date of manufacture: 19th Century

Description

A striking English Arts & Crafts period stained glass firescreen of elegant geometric design, dating from the late 19th to early 20th century. The panel features richly coloured hand-cut stained glass in jewel tones of ruby red, turquoise, amber, green and mauve, arranged in a beautifully balanced symmetrical pattern with a central lozenge motif. The textured glass catches the light wonderfully, making this an exceptionally decorative interior piece whether positioned before a fireplace or displayed in a window setting. The stained glass panel is housed within its original metal frame and raised on a decorative wrought iron stand with scroll carrying handle to the top. An excellent example of Arts & Crafts craftsmanship with strong architectural presence and vibrant colour. Dimensions: Height: 79 cm Width: 48 cm Condition: Good antique condition with age-related wear consistent with period use; just a couple of hairline cracks to the glass. The glass displays beautifully and the frame retains an attractive aged patina.
