Description

Really nice early 19th century Regency mahogany breakfront low bookcase in very good condition. Made from quality timbers throughout and a lovely mellow colour. Complete with full array of original shelves inside which are fully adjustable. The bookcase stands on nice shape small turned legs. NO splits to the ends or top. The glass in the doors is probably later and all the locks have been changed in Victorian times but does come with a working key for all of them. One of the nice features of this bookcase is that it is not too deep from front to back. Will hold an awful lot of books !! Straight out of a Perthshire country house. SIZE; 67" wide by 17" deep in the middle, 14" deep at the ends and standing 40" high CIRCA; 1810

Internal Ref: 11807
